

Create a PHP form that collects user input for their product name, description, and price. Perform form validation to ensure that all fields are filled out and that the price is a valid number. Insert the data into a MySQL database table called "products".finally display a message to the user indicating whether the insertion was successful or not.

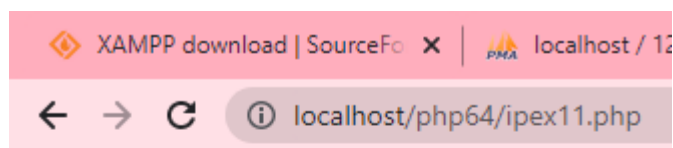

product validation form

product_name:

description:

price:

product validation form

product_name:

description:

price:

product successfully inserted into the table.

product_name	description	price
chocolate	tasty	100